

---

SUPPERS

A magazine at its heart is an aspirational community.

But so often we read something, put it down, and move on. What if we could linger a little longer in the company of others whose distinct lens on the mosaic could enrich our own?

Gather a group of six to ten people together to share a meal and conversation around friendship and how it shapes us and our shared life.

Several discussion prompts are suggested on the back. When the evening's over, use this bookmark in whatever book you're reading and let the memory of the discussion enrich the words.

Bon appétit!

---

DINNER

We have yet to meet someone who doesn't love these Banh Mi Bowls:

Recipe: bit.ly/3HIzJAY

SOUNDTRACK

Playlist: spoti.fi/3tFQIoJ

DISCUSSION

1. How do you define friendship?
2. What makes good boundaries in friendship?
3. Would you ever consider formalizing a friendship in any way? For what reason(s)?
4. Can friendship be made into a political policy?
5. Do you find friendship to be an aid to creativity or a hindrance? Or both?
6. Do you welcome “brutal friends”? Reflect on a time when you were grateful for a friend’s correction.
7. Has a friendship ever cost you?

#commentsuppers